How to Use Wesson Oil

WESSON OIL is a pure delicate vegetable product for use in salad dressings and sauces, for shortening and frying, and wherever an oil or cooking fat of high quality is required. It makes rich, tender cake, flaky pastry and delicious hot breads. For frying it is more wholesome than fats of animal origin, giving a thin golden brown crust which is easily digestible. No special instructions are needed for its use. Follow your favorite recipes and see how good they are when made with Wesson Oil.

Take the Loan

By Edward Everett Hale (Written in May, 1861, at the outbreak of the Civil War)

Come, freemen of the land, Come meet the great demand, True heart and open hand.

Take the loan! For the hopes the prophets saw, For the swords your brothers draw, For liberty and law

Take the loan!

Ye ladies of the land, As ye love the gallant band, Who have drawn the soldier's brand.

Take the loan! Who would bring them what she could.

Who would give the soldier food, Who would staunch her brother's blood,

Take the loan!

All who saw her hosts pass by, All who joined the parting cry, When he bade them do or die.

Take the loan! As ye wished their triumph then, As ye hope to meet again,

TORPEDO IS COSTLY

Every One Fired Costs Uncle Sam $7,000.

On Land, Machine Gun le Most Expensive, Eating Up $12 Every Minute It Is in Action.

A few years ago theatergoers were much interested in a production in which the hero had to get rid of a million dollars in a year or lose a larger

Figures just compiled by Sam's ordnance officers show that if the hero had declared a little war and it had lasted a few weeks he would have experienced no difficulty in ridding himself of his wealth.

The figures show that each time

Uncle Sam fires a torpedo it costs $7,-

Ordnance expenses in time of war range from a maximum of $7,000 for each torpedo to 2 cents for each bullet fired from a revolver.

If the dreadnaught Arizona into action and fires a broadside from its 12 14-inch guns and auxiliary cannon it will cost just $15,000 for each of these performances.
On land the machine gun has about the most expensive appetite of any of Uncle Sam's weapons. The ma-chine gun fires between 500 and 600 bullets of .30 caliber a minute, which makes it cost $12 for each 60 seconds

Every bullet fired from a rifle by an infantryman or cavalryman costs 5 cents, while the pistol shots fired by cavalrymen, officers and non-commissioned officers cost 2 cents apiece. The shells and shrapnel used by field artil-lery cost about $20 each, while a projectile for a 14-inch land gun costs

The torpedo, however, is not only the most expensive means of destruc-tion used in American warfare, but it is the most delicately constructed weapon at Uncle Sam's command. It is virtually a launch, being equipped with two screw propellers moving in opposite directions and being 18 or 20 feet long. It will continue to plow the sea until its motors run down or it hits Nitroglycerine and copper contribute most heavily to the expense of tor-pedoes. Expert workmanship ranks next as an item of cost, for the delinext as an item of cost, for the defi-cate parts of a torpedo must be accu-rate in their construction to one-five-thousandths of an inch. A thickness or thinness of more or less than one-five thousandth of an inch in any part of the mechanism would prevent it from working properly.

TELLS OF A CLEVER COLLIE

Robert Louis Stevenson Recites In teresting Tale of Dog Which Knew His Master's Step.

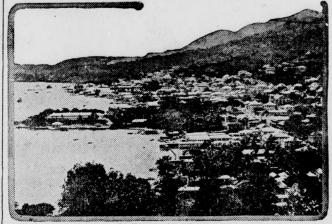

In one of his books, Robert Louis Stevenson writes of his friend, John Tood, a shepherd who had spent his days herding sheep on the Pentland hills, in Scotland. Many a talk these two had together as they roamed the hillsides with the dogs and sheep, and John had endless stories of the days when the drove roads, which now lie green and solitary, were busy thor-oughfares, thronged with drovers and their beasts. Of sheep dogs John has much to tell, and here is one of his stories as Stevenson tells it:

"Once," he writes, "when John had a specially clever sheepdog, he had bought some sheep in Edinburgh, and on the way out, the road being crowded, two were lost. This was a reproach to John, and a slur upon the dog; and both were alive to their mis-fortune. Word came, after some days, that a farmer about Braid had found a pair of sheep; and thither went John and the dog to ask for restitution. But the farmer was a hard man and stood upon his rights. 'How were they had bought right and left from many sellers he had no notion of the marks Very well,' said the farmer, 'then it's right that I should keep them. 'Well,' said John, 'it's a fact that I cannae tellathe sheep; but if my dog can, will ve let me have them?' farmer was honest as well as hard, and, besides, I daresay, he had little fear of the ordeal; so he had all the sheep upon his farm into one large park, and turned John's dog into their midst. That hairy man of business knew his errand well; he knew that John and he had bought two sheep and (to their shame) lost them about Boroughmuirhead; he knew, besides . . . that they were come to Braid for their recovery; and without pause or blun-der singled out, first one and then another, the two waifs. . . . And the shepherd and his dog—what do I say the true shepherd and his man—set off together by Fairmilehead in jocund humor, and 'smiled togither' all the way home, with the two recovered ones before them.'

"I suppose if your candidate had been elected some radical changes would have been made in the gov-

COUNTRY'S NEW TERRITORY

ST. THOMAS, WEST INDIES

HE American flag has recently lists again. been raised over the Danish West Indian group of islands, the United States having agreed by treaty to pay the Danish govern-ment $25,000,000 for all of the holdings of the latter country in the Wes Indies.

On the map the West Indies are een as a string of islands, beginning with the large ones of Cuba and Santo Domingo, thinning out in midocean to a few almost invisible dots, and then emerging to the south again in the larger French and English islands.
What we have bought from Denmark are about fifty of these little pinhead islands, writes Frederic J. Haskin. Only three of them are large enough to have names on the map, and the largest contains but 84 square miles. Insignificant, however, these islands are most interesting, and may become

Two Embraced in the Virgin Group. St. Thomas and St. John belong to the Virgin group of islands, which was discovered by Columbus, as was also St. Croix. St. Thomas was settled by the Dutch, who left it for New York. Then the Danes took it, and the English took it away from the Danes several times, but always gave it back because they did not want it. The Dutch and the English also squabbled in a small way over St. Croix; then the Spaniards got hold of it, only to be driven out by the French, who gave it to the Knights of Malta. They, being unable to make a living there, burned up their holdings and departed. Denmark, thereupon got St. Croix for the same reason that she got St. Thomas, namely, because nobody else wanted it. She has been losing money on the islands almost ever since; that $25,000,000 will be the first property of the control o profit that Denmark, as a nation, has made out of her West Indian colonies

The history of our own relation to the islands has been much repeated of late. In 1865 Secretary of State Seward offered $7,500,000 for them, a vote was taken here and the people were almost unanimous for the transfer. The bill then died in the senate committee on foreign relations. In 1902 we wasted an opportunity to buy the islands for $5,000,000. In 1916 we jumped at the chance to buy them for $25,000,900, and now the money having been paid the islands are under the flag. The price comes to nearly $300 an acre, as against 2 cents an acre which we paid for Alaska, 27 cents for the Philippines and about $35 for the Canal zone. Thus it is seen that colonies, like everything else, are going up in price.

Island Littered With Old Relics.

This crude summary of the history of the Danish West Indies gives no idea of their real story, which is filled with romance of the Spanish main, with pirates and privateers and doub-loons and creole beauties. The islands are littered with old cannon, ruined forts and all the other stage props of swashbuckling romance.

Geologically, these islands are the tips of a badly swamped mountain Sa Thomas juts suddenly out of the water, like a swimmer's head. its highest point you can see Porto Rico to the west and an amaz ing amount of ocean all around. There is practically no cultivation, be cause all the people make a living out of the harbor. Fire and hurricane swept the island almost of forest, but there is a low, dense growth of brush, which affords a shelfew cattle graze on the open, swept mountain tops. The island is beautiful with a vivid, unexpected beautiful with a vivid, unexpected beauty—an ideal place to explore with a pony and a camera. And the bulk of it is now serving no other purpose than to delight an occasional wanderer with an eye for the picturesque. St. Croix, on the other hand, is a rich island. It contains 84 square miles of territory, a large part of which is planted in sugar cane. One side of the island is flat, while a miniature mountain range borders the other, rising steeply out of the bright, tender green of the sugar fields, which reach clear down to the palm groves along the white beaches. This island has fine roads bordered with rows of royal palms, and it boasts no less than 20 automobiles. Long ago it was a favorite winter resort for Americans, and the islanders believe that it is going to become popular with tour-

Land has already been bought for the erection of a large modern hotel.

St. John Claims 900 Inhabitants.

St. John contains about twenty square miles. It claims 900 inhabit ants, but they are hard to find owing to the density of the jungle, the lack of roads and the fact that there is no town on the island.

The other 47 islands which are in cluded in our purchase vary from uch bits as Sail rock, which is a bare spire of granite that looks like a sail and affords a home for a few sea birds, to Buck island, which is several square miles in area, covered with dense growth, and full of wild pigeons, parrots and wild goats. Most of these small islands, or keys, are uninhab-ited and many of them are practically never visited by men.

Our purchase includes three principal cities and a few smaller villages. The most important of the cities is Charlotte Amalie, on this island of St. Thomas. In the islands the town almost never being heard. It has about 12,000 inhabitants, most of whom have in the sense that Port au Prince is The typical St. Thomian of the better class is a West Indian creole, and of a distinctive type. He has just enough negro blood to make his skin dark and his hair slightly kinky. He is indolent and pleasure-loving, but intelligent and pretty well educated. Many of the leading merchants of St. Thomas are creoles, including the only millionaire in the islands. These well-to-do creoles have their children educated in Europe, and mingle with the Danish officials as social equals. Many of the young Danes have taken creole brides back to Denmark.

Capital City Rated Beautiful.

In St. Croix are Christiansted, the capital, and Fredrikstad, each having a population of between 4,000 and 5,000. Fredriksted to 5,000. Fredrikstad is a flat, white, dusty town, swept by the wind from its open roadstead, and is neither picturesque nor interesting. Christian-sted, on the other hand, is a beautiful tropical city, full of flowers and palms and picturesque old houses. It has a pretty little harbor choked with sand and mud. The bulk of the people in St. Croix are black negroes, while the St. Croix are black negroes, while the dominant class are mostly Irishmen

From these facts, it will be seen that we have not bought a valuable piece of real estate, but the purchase seems to be amply justified. Whatever the value of the islands to us, our potential value to them is enormous. The people of the Danish West Indies are looking to us with faith and hope for many things, and the whole Caribbean world will watch our course there with keen and critical interest. Wherefore Uncle Sam's new islands are a more important part of his domain than they appear on the map.

No Newsboys Required

without the aid of newsboys in the outlying districts of the city. This has been done with the aid of a motor This has truck, a number of sacks and coin receptacles. The sacks are placed on poles or tree branches, and contain 20 to 40 papers each. They carry signs reading: "Take paper and deposit coin in coin receptacle." The motor truck delivers the sacks to their various positions in the morning and collects the empties and receipts in the evening. The returns show that very few peo ple neglect to pay for the papers they take. The sales average 35 papers take. The sales average 35 papers to the sack, and represent additional business. Investigation among the news dealers of the city also that they have not lost by reason of the new scheme. It is evident that the sacks serve a class of people who went without papers before, because they could not be served by the newsbox system.-Wall Street Journal.

Washington.—Secretary of Agricul-ture Houston recently issued a state-ment emphasizing the importance to the nation of a generously adequate food supply for the coming year in the nation of a generously adequate food supply for the coming year in view of the economic problems which may arise as a result of the entrance of the United States into the war. "Many millions of people across the seas, as well as our own people," says the secretary, "must rely in large part upon the products of our fields and ranges. This situation will continue to exist even though hostilities should end unexpectedly soon, since European production cannot be restored immediately to its normal basis. Recognition of the fact that the world at large, as well as our own consumers, must rely more strongly on American farmers this year than ever before should encourage them to strive to the utmost to meet these urgent

Enlarged production of our staple food crops is the most important serv ice required of our agriculture, according to the secretary. He says:

No Chance of Over-Production. "Because of the shortage of such crops practically throughout the world there is no risk in the near future of excessive production such as some-times has resulted in unremunerative prices to producers. This is particularly true of the cereals and of peas beans, cowpeas, soy beans and buck-wheat. In view of the world scarcity of food, there is hardly a possibility that the production of these crops by the farmers of the United States can be too great this year, and there is abundant reason to expect generous price returns for all available sur-

"The most effective step that may be taken to increase the production of these crops is to enlarge the acreage devoted to them in the regions age devoted to them in the regions where they are grown habitually. This expansion of acreage should be to the limit permitted by available good seed, labor, and equipment. "The high prices for foodstuffs that have prevailed during the last few

"Taking the winter-wheat territory a whole, winterkilling has occurred to an extent very much greater than usual. This obviously, if not com-pensated for in some way, will mean a material reduction in the supplies of our most important bread cereal. Where winter wheat has been damaged sufficiently to justify the abandonment of fields, it should by all means be replaced by spring-planted food crops, preferably small grains or corn. The condition of the winter wheat crop, as shown by the department in its last report, is more than 25 per cent below the average condition April 1 for the past ten years. This condition forecasts a production this year nearly 52,000,000 bushels less than that of 1916 and 243,000,000 bushels less than the crop of 1915.

Value of Oats and Barley.
"Climatic requirements of s wheat during the last few weeks of its growth render it a more risky crop than others to plant outside the areas in which its production has been proved to be successful, so that it is not recommended for regions where oats or corn will be more certain to produce satisfactory yields.

"If land intended for spring wheat cannot be put into good condition early enough for seeding, oats or barley can be substituted to good advantage in the sections where these crops are known to do well. The ease with which barley may be substituted directly for wheat in buman food and rectly for wheat in human food and its usefulness to replace wheat mill-ing by-products as food in the production of the milk supply, renders its abundant production important. "The place of rye under present

The high food value of rice, in the opinion of the secretary, warrants a large increase in planting in the states where this cereal can be grown. creased acreage of grains sorghums is also strongly recommended.

Large Acreage of Corn Urged.

The vital importance of a large acreage of corn is pointed out by Secre tary Houston. He says this crop "is the leading food and feed crop of the United States in geographic range of production, acreage and quantity of production. Because of the prices obtained for the last crop and the world demand for this grain, its profitable-ness to the American farmer during the approaching season is clear. Con ditions now warrant the planting of the largest acreage of this crop which it is possible to handle effectively.

"Although fall is the proper time for breaking sod for corn, there are many unproductive and foul meadows and indifferent pastures in Illinois, Indi-ana, Ohio, and the Middle Atlantic and Northeastern States that, under exist-ing conditions can be broken now to advantage and planted to corn. resulting reduction of hay and pasture would be more than replaced by the corn stover, ensilage, and grain pro-

EVERS FORGETS ALL SAVE GAME IN THICK OF BATTLE

Veteran Gets Reputation as Umpire-Baiter Because He Puts Whole Heart and Soul Into Struggle.

Johnny Evers, captain of the Boston Braves, has become known as an um-pire-baiter because, in his own words, he forgets all save the game when in the thick of a struggle on the diamond. Grantland Rice tells of a recent conversation with the veteran player on this subject in the course of which Evers

"I don't believe in looking for chance to go after an umpire. But I believe in a player putting his whole heart and soul into a game, in fighting every minute he is on the field. And when a player works himself into this pitch it is hard to keep quiet when you believe that some bad decision has cost you a game that you worked so hard

"You say that getting after the umpire doesn't ever change a decision or do any good. Probably not. But when I am in a game I never think of anything but winning that game. If I didn't care, if I could take the game easily, without getting keyed up, would never open my mouth. But I

Evers, who is one of the few members of the famous Chicago machine of

Rest Periods as Aid to Production

By ALFRED WESTFALL, Instructor in Colorado Agricultural College

Fatigue is the decreased ability to do work as the result of doing work. Work uses up the energy stored in the cells, wears out the cells themselves, and produces poisons in the blood. Fatigue may be either physical or mental. Its characteristics are acceleration of the pulse and respiration, increase in bodily temperature, fluctuation of the attention, increase in error, decrease in control of movements, reduction in the capacity for physical work, and the lowering of the mental functions.

During rest the body recovers from fatigue, the cells are rebuilt, and the blood gets rid of its poisons. The man who does work, mental or physical, must proportion his work and rest to accomplish the maximum amount of work with the minimum amount of fatigue. If he works too long at a time, he so completely exhausts the cells that they recover slowly. If he rests too frequently or too long at a time, he fails to accomplish his maximum amount of work. The periods for work and rest vary with the different kinds of work.

At the Bethlehem steel works it was found that undirected laborers loaded an average of 121/2 tons of pig iron per day. Even when bonuses were offered, they were not able to go beyond this average, for if they did too much the first part of the day, they were not able to do so much the latter part. When, under the direction of an efficiency expert, they followed each twelve-minute period of work with a period of rest, they were able to load 471/2 tons with less fatigue. These and other experiments have led to the conclusion that every worker should have a brief period of rest every two hours at least, and much oftener if the work is difficult and exacting.

Well-Prepared Soil First Step Toward a Good Lawn, Declares Expert Gardener.

Thorough preparation of the soil is Thorough preparation of the soli is the first requisite in building a lawn, points out M. F. Ahearn, professor of landscape gardening in the Kansas State Agricultural college. Plow deep, and disk and harrow the soil until it ecomes finely pulverized.

"Seed is used oftener than turf in making a new lawn because it is cheap-er," said Professor Ahearn.

"Sod may be laid at any time. It brings quicker results than seed, but requires constant watering the first season. Use sod for planting narrow strips, borders and terraces. In all other cases seed will give satisfaction. Thick sowing will be most satisfactory as it prevents the growth of weeds and other grasses.

"Watch for the first appearance of worth weeds in the lawn and destroy them hens immediately. The only way to get dandelion out is to remove the roots."

Kentucky blue grass is the best grass to plant, in the opinion of Professor Ahearn. It thrives in almost any soil time must be nearly up. But I seem to feel younger each year, and to like baseball better. If I am slowing up I don't feel it, although I guess it takes a little longer each spring to get my arm in condition and to get going at top speed.

18 Cents a Dozen

Did you pay war prices for eggs last winter? Most folks did, but while neighbors were paying from 35 to 40 cents a dozen for eggs, H. L. Kempster of the Missouri College of Agriculture was obtaining his for 18 cents. He had a small poultry plant in his back yard. His chicken house, six feet square, was built for less than $4. The laying flock, consisting of ten White Leghorn pullets, was placed in the new house November 1. No male bird was included in the flock. No space was available for a yard, but the confinement, which is not advisable for breeding stock, did not seem to reduce egg production.

The ten hens produced 409 eggs from November 1 to March 31. Mr. Kemp-ster considers this production good since only two of the hens were old enough to lay before January 1. Only 44 eggs were laid the first two months while 365 were laid during January February and March. Even then the 409 eggs were produced at a food cost of $7 or less than 18 cents a dozen At market prices which averaged 35 cents a dozen, the eggs were worth $12.13. In other words, the hens returned a profit of cents a bird above cost of During March the feed cost of a dozen eggs was less than 9 cents a dozen. It is thus seen that the longer the dozen for the whole period. The test has demonstrated that laying hens can be kept in any back yard no matter how small without becoming an objection to the neighbors, and that eggs can be economically produced.

Moonshine and Fishing.

Moonshine and Fishing.

We have made a good deal of fun of country folk who "set store" by the phases of the moon in planning their work or trying to forecast the weath-The general idea seems to be that things will not turn out well when done "in the dark o' the moon," or when that luminary is waning, on the theory that a growing moon symbolizes increase, advance, growth, whereas a waning moon symbolizes decline and decay. But a new and somewhat more philosophical turn is given to the matter by an angler who writes in The Country Herald (England) and who suggests a novel explanation for the periodical dourness of pike as follows: "An old angler friend rather surprised me this week by asking my opinion of the effect of the full moon upon pike prospects. I had nothing to say, pike prospects. I had nothing to say, because I had never considered there was any relation between the two. But was any relation between the two. But he thinks so, his view being that the jack take advantage of a moonlight which almost turns night into day, to feed. Consequently when the angler arrives the following morning their appetite is satisfied and they have no de-sire for his lures."

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

The teacher's last question was meant to be a scientific poser.

"What is that which pervades all space," she said, "which no wall or door or other substance can shut out?" No one had an answer ready, but Freddy Sharpe.

"The smell of onions, miss," he said, promptly.
